$270,000

This undeveloped and primarily wooded parcel of ground lies just outside the city limits of Anderson, Missouri and a stone's throw from up-and-coming housing, business and city developments that make it an attractive piece of real estate, for various reasons. With entrances on both the north and south sides of the property as well as electric and fiber optic available nearby, this tract has potential for either a secluded residential tract or larger scale development and its location (conveniently close to two separate interstate exits) makes for quick and easy access to more urban areas in both Missouri and Arkansas.
